SYDNEY, Australia – 6th August, 2020

Serendipity Software – Apple silicon Support

At WWDC 2020, Tim Cook announced that Apple will be transitioning their Mac platform to Apple silicon. Serendipity Software is proud to announce that we have completed porting to this new architecture, and will release a software update when Apple make these new Macs available.

"Supporting the new CPU architecture required substantial updates to the software, but we are committed to supporting our macOS user base into the future" said Peter Skarpetis, Serendipity Software's Chief Executive Officer.
